Wine Description

This amazing wine, like our Bor Forras, is produced from late-harvested Blaufränkisch grapes which are full of natural grape sugars and undergo only a short maceration period (skins and juice together during fermentation), resulting in a soft red with very low tannins. This grape variety is a direct relative of the Pinot Noir and Gamay and was first documented in the 18th century in Austria. It needs a warm environment to fully mature, and the continental climate of the Kunság wine region is perfect for this.

Region Description

Kunság is a historical, ethnographic and geographical region in Hungary which was the result of a second and final Cuman colonization of the area. Tradition dates its emergence to 1279, when Ladislaus IV, a half-Cuman King of Hungary, granted its first set of fiscal and judicial privileges.

Wine has been produce here for many centuries and in recent years many of Hungary's finest wines have originated in the numerous artisan vineyards of Kunság.

Food Pairing:

Try it served chilled on a summers evening with fruit desserts and soft cheeses or as an accompaniment to spicy food.
